COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT 51

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorize a shortening of that term.

Every student is required to pursue the regular classical course, as experience has proved exemptions in this regard to be a source of great inconvenience.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in Latin, Greek, French and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy, or who have graduated in any of the learned professions. The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic Year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Tuesday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23rd of December and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College, unless a deposit, for that purpose, be left with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

Books and stationery, if not supplied by the parents or guardians themselves, will be furnished by the College at moderate prices. No bill for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged, unless the purchase has been authorized by the Treasurer of the College.

Every student must procure the College uniform, which for the greater convenience of parents, can be obtained at the College, on moderate terms. He must be provided with at least two suits for daily wear, for which no particular color is prescribed, six changes of underclothing, with a like proportion of handkerchiefs and towels, and three pairs of shoes. He must also have a silver spoon and fork, which if not brought, will be furnished by the College and charged to his account.

Whatever sums parents or guardians may allow their sons or wards for pocket-money, must be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Every student from a distance must have a guardian in the vicinity who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal.

N. B.—Parents and guardians are requested to make arrangements for their sons and wards to spend, if not the whole, at least a part, of the vacations elsewhere than at the College.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month, and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The use of tobacco is discouraged, and students are required to abide by the regulations in this regard.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at 8 o'clock A. M., and at $2\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{1}{4}$ A. M., and continue until $11\frac{3}{4}$. They are resumed at $2\frac{3}{4}$, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, playgrounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly catechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &C.

On holidays the students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, may attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government and duly drilled by a competent officer.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1460 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meredian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object-glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorizes a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those, who being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in Latin, Greek, French, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy, or who have graduated in any of the learned professions. The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic Year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Tuesday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

All accounts must be paid half-yearly in advance. If a student is withdrawn before the end of a session, no deduction will be made, except in cases of sickness or dismission.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College, unless a deposit, for that purpose, be left with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

Books and stationery, if not supplied by the parents or guardians themselves, will be furnished by the College at moderate prices. No bill for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged, unless the purchase has been authorized by Treasurer of the College.

Every student must be provided with at least two suits for daily wear, for which no particular color is prescribed, six changes of underclothing, with a like proportion of handkerchiefs and towels, and three pairs of shoes. He must also have a silver spoon and fork, which if not brought, will be furnished by the College and charged to his account. The College uniform can be obtained here on moderate terms.

Whatever sums parents or guardians may allow their sons or wards for pocket-money, must be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Every student from a distance must have a guardian in the vicinity who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal.

N. B.—No student will be allowed to remain at the College during the Summer vacation.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month, and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at 8 o'clock, A. M., and at $2\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{1}{4}$ A. M., and continue until $11\frac{3}{4}$. They are resumed at $2\frac{3}{4}$, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, playgrounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly catechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &C.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government, and duly drilled by a competent person.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

THE SUMMER SESSION of 1874 will commence on Wednesday, April 1st, and will continue until July 1st. Two Lectures will be given each Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, from 6 to 8 P. M. During the course, Clinical Instruction will be afforded. Matriculation fee, $5, valid for the year.

The Faculty desire to call especial attention to the Summer Session. By attending, students will be enabled to keep up an unbroken course of study, and new matriculants be better prepared to attend understandingly the Lectures of the following winter.

PROSPECTUS.

THE REGULAR COURSE will begin October 5th, and end in the following March.

THE LECTURES are delivered daily at 5½ o'clock, P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Government Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS contain spacious Lecture Rooms and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery.

FACILITIES FOR THE PROSECUTION OF MEDICAL STUDIES.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the course ample opportunities will be afforded the students for Clinical Instruction, which is free to the Matriculants of the Institution. This instruction will be furnished at the different hospitals of the city; and, besides the Clinical Lectures there given, a Dispensary connected with the College Building affords great facilities for the study of disease. It will thus be seen that this valuable element of teaching is a chief feature in the curriculum.

DISSECTIONS.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy and Surgical Operations upon the cadaver. The dissecting-room is a large, convenient and well-ventilated apartment, furnished with gas and water.

MUSEUMS.

The Army Medical Museum, adjacent to the College Building, contains the most valuable collection of Surgical and Medical Pathological Specimens in the world, and embodies the results of the medical and surgical experience gathered from the various hospitals and battle-fields of the late war. This collection is constantly being increased. The Smithsonian Museum, which has a national reputation, contains one of the finest collections of Zoölogical Specimens on the continent, thus affording ample opportunities for the study of Natural History and Comparative Anatomy. Its collection of Crania is in itself an important feature. The Museum of the Agricultural Department and its conservatories, containing magnificent collections of tropical and semi-tropical plants, offer rare facilities to the student of Medical Botany.

LIBRARIES.

The Congressional Library, the largest in the country, open daily to the public, places within the reach of the student rare works which otherwise would be difficult to obtain. The Smithsonian Library, celebrated for its scientific volumes can be reached with equal facility. The Library of the Army Medical Museum, solely devoted to medicine and surgery, contains nearly forty thousand volumes. This is adjacent to the College, and is open daily to the students.

GENERAL INDUCEMENTS.

Washington is rapidly becoming the centre of art, literature and science. A winter residence at the capital of the nation is very agreeable, and each season finds it more crowded by the wealthy and cultivated. To one desiring to unite study with pleasure no place affords greater facilities. Education is here presented in its most attractive forms. Almost nightly during the winter, lecturers, eminent in science, appear in our public lecture halls. The sessions of Congress offer to many, intellectual enjoyment, and social contact with the first minds of the day opens to the student a most pleasant avenue of knowledge. Amid all these public and private, political and social attractions, the student of medicine can find time to lay the foundation of a medical education, assisted by unsurpassed facilities.

PROSPECTUS.

The city of Washington offers peculiar advantages to the Student of Law.

Besides opportunities of hearing the arguments and forming the acquaintance of the most distinguished members of the American Bar, he has here the rare privilege of witnessing all the forms of judicial procedure, from those of the petty local courts up to those of the Supreme Court of the United States, and of consulting the Law Library of Congress, which contains a collection of Law books unsurpassed in variety and extent. Moreover, by an order of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the graduates of the Law School of Georgetown College are ipso facto entitled to admission to the Bar of said Court.

THE COURSE OF STUDIES embraces a period of two years. Candidates for graduation must have attended two consecutive courses of Lectures in this School, unless they have already studied for one year at some regularly established Law School or under some approved attorney; in which case, attendance at one full course only will be required.

Besides the ordinary Lectures and examinations thereon, the students will be encouraged to deliver lectures on legal topics and to discuss mooted cases. Facilities will also be afforded for Moot Courts and Law Clubs, under the direction of the Officers of the School. The exercises will be held in the evening, in order to facilitate the attendance of gentlemen who are engaged in the service of the Government.

The entire charge for attendance on all the exercises will be eighty dollars a year. Graduation fee, ten dollars.

The Lecture-Room of the School is in the Law College Building, F Street, between 9th and 10th Streets, N. W., Washington.

The opening Lecture of the term of 1874–75 will be delivered on Wednesday evening, October 7th, 1874.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT 47

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorises a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those, who being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in Latin, Greek, French, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics, and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy, or who have graduated in any of the learned professions. The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Tuesday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February, and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December, and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified, will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College, unless a deposit, for that purpose, be left with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

Books and stationery, if not supplied by the parents or guardians themselves, will be furnished by the College at moderate prices. No bill for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged, unless the purchase has been authorized by Treasurer of the College.

Every student must be provided with at least two suits for daily wear, for which no particular color is prescribed, six changes of underclothing, with a like proportion of handkerchiefs and towels, and three pairs of shoes. He must also

Whatever sums parents or guardians may allow their sons or wards for pocket-money, must be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month, and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at $8\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, A. M., and at $2\frac{3}{4}$ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{3}{4}$ A. M., and continue until 12. They are resumed at 3, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

The day-scholars who do not return home at noon, will be required to prepare their lessons in the study-hall, at the regular hours.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, playgrounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly catechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &C.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government, and duly drilled by a competent person.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments, and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

THE SUMMER SESSION of 1875 began on April 14th, and it will end on July 1st. Two Lectures are given each Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, from 6 to 8 P. M. During the course, Clinical Instruction will be afforded. Matriculation fee, $5, valid for the year.

The Faculty desire to call especial attention to the Summer Session. By attending, students will be enabled to keep up an unbroken course of study, and new matriculants be better prepared to attend understandingly the Lectures of the following winter.

PROSPECTUS.

THE REGULAR COURSE will begin October 6th, and end in the following March.

THE LECTURES are delivered daily at 5½ o'clock, P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Government Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS contain spacious Lecture Rooms and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery.

FACILITIES FOR THE PROSECUTION OF MEDICAL STUDIES.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the course ample opportunities will be afforded the students for Clinical Instruction, which is free to the Matriculants of the Institution. This instruction will be furnished at the different hospitals of the city; and, besides the Clinical Lectures there given, a Dispensary connected with the College Building affords great facilities for the study of disease. It will thus be seen that this valuable element of teaching is a chief feature in the curriculum.

DISSECTIONS.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy and Surgical Operations upon the cadaver. The dissecting room is a large, convenient and well-ventilated apartment, furnished with gas and water.

MUSEUMS.

The Army Medical Museum, adjacent to the College Building, contains the most valuable collection of Surgical and Medical Pathological Specimens in the world, and embodies the results of the medical and surgical experience gathered from the various hospitals and battle-fields of the late war. This collection is constantly being increased. The Smithsonian Museum, which has a national reputation, contains one of the finest collections of Zoölogical Specimens on the continent, thus affording ample opportunities for the study of Natural History and Comparative Anatomy. Its collection of Crania is in itself an important feature. The Museum of the Agricultural Department and its conservatories, containing magnificent collections of tropical and semi-tropical plants, offer rare facilities to the student of Medical Botany.

LIBRARIES.

The Congressional Library, the largest in the country, open daily to the public, places within the reach of the student rare works which otherwise would be difficult to obtain. The Smithsonian Library, celebrated for its scientific volumes, can be reached with equal facility. The Library of the Army Medical Museum, solely devoted to medicine and surgery, contains nearly forty thousand volumes. This is adjacent to the College, and is open daily to the students.

GENERAL INDUCEMENTS.

Washington is rapidly becoming the centre of art, literature and science. A winter residence at the capital of the nation is very agreeable, and each season finds it more crowded by the wealthy and cultivated. To one desiring to unite study with pleasure, no place affords greater facilities. Education is here presented in its most attractive forms. Almost nightly during the winter, lecturers, eminent in science, appear in our public lecture halls. The sessions of Congress offer to many, intellectual enjoyment, and social contact with the first minds of the day opens to the student a most pleasant avenue of knowledge. Amid all these public and private, political and social attractions, the student of medicine can find time to lay the foundation of a medical education, assisted by unsurpassed facilities.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT 51

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorizes a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those, who being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in Latin, Greek, French, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics, Mechanics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy, or who have graduated in any of the learned professions. The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Tuesday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February, and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December, and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified, will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at $8\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, A. M., and at $2\frac{3}{4}$ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{3}{4}$ A. M., and continue until 12. They are resumed at 3, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

The day-scholars who do not return home at noon, will be required to prepare their lessons in the study-hall, at the regular hours.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, playgrounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly cathechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &c.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided. A Boat-Club was organized, May, 1876.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments, and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

THE SUMMER SESSION of 1876 began on TUESDAY EVENING, May 2d, and it will continue during the months of May, June, and September.

Two Lectures will be delivered each Tuesday and Friday, from 6 to 8 P. M.

During the Course Clinical Instruction will be afforded.

Matriculation fee $5, valid for the year.

The Faculty desire to call especial attention to the Summer School. By attending, students will be enabled to keep up an unbroken course of study, and new matriculants be better prepared to understandingly attend the Lectures of the following Winter. This course is free to all matriculants.

PROSPECTUS.

THE REGULAR COURSE will begin Monday, October 2d, and end in the following March.

THE LECTURES will be delivered daily, commencing at 5.30 o'clock P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Government Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS contain spacious Lecture Rooms and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery.

FACILITIES FOR THE PROSECUTION OF MEDICAL STUDIES.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the course ample opportunity will be afforded the students for Clinical Instruction, free to the Matriculants of this Institution, at the Children's Hospital, Providence Hospital and Columbia Hospital for Women, by the medical officers of the respective hospitals; and, besides the Clinical Lectures there given, a Dispensary connected with the College Building affords great facilities for the study of disease. It will thus be seen that this valuable element of teaching is a prominent feature in the curriculum.

DISSECTIONS.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy and Surgical Operations upon the cadaver. The dissecting room is a large, convenient and well ventilated apartment, furnished with gas and water.

MUSEUMS.

The Army Medical Museum, adjacent to the College Building, contains the most valuable collection of Surgical and Medical Pathological Specimens in the world, and embodies the results of the medical and surgical experience gathered from the various hospitals and battle-fields of the late war. This collection is constantly being increased. The Smithsonian Museum, which has a national reputation, contains one of the finest collections of Zoölogical Specimens on the continent, thus affording ample opportunities for the study of Natural History and Comparative Anatomy. Its collection of crania is in itself an important feature. The Museum of the Agricultural Department and its conservatories, containing magnificent collections of tropical and semi-tropical plants, offer rare facilities to the student of Medical Botany.

LIBRARIES.

The Congressional Library, the largest in the country, open daily to the public, places within the reach of the student rare works which otherwise would be difficult to obtain. The Smithsonian Library, celebrated for its scientific volumes, can be reached with equal facility. The Library of the Army Medical Museum, solely devoted to medicine and surgery, contains over forty thousand volumes and as many pamphlets. This is adjacent to the College, and is open daily to the students.

BERNARD T. HANLEY, ESQ.,

Secretary and Treasurer.

PROSPECTUS.

The next term of this School of Law will commence on Wednesday, October 4th, 1876, and continue until the first Wednesday in June, 1877.

The Course of Studies embraces a period of two years, but is so arranged that Students may enter at the beginning of any year and complete the course the year following.

The plan of instruction embraces lectures, examinations and recitations upon the several titles of law, together with illustrations of actual Court proceedings and practice through the medium of Moot Courts, under the direction of the Faculty.

The regular Course of Instruction for the Junior Class will embrace a series of lectures on the Elements of the Common Law, including the law of Real and Personal Property, the law of Contracts and particularly Mercantile Law; for the Senior Class a Course on Common Law Pleading, the Law of Evidence, Equity, Jurisprudence and Criminal Law.

The text books to be used during the term, and which can be obtained in Washington at reduced rates, will be announced by the professors at their opening lectures.

The lectures and exercises will be in the evening, commencing at 6 o'clock, so as not to interfere with the daily occupation of Students, and to enable such as can to avail themselves of the advantages of the different law libraries and of attendance at the Courts.

Students are expected and required to be regular and punctual in their attendance, and to be prepared for close and exhaustive examinations upon the several studies. They should also attend the lectures and recitations of both classes, that they may become the more thoroughly grounded in the principles of law.

Candidates for graduation must have attended two full Courses of Lectures in this School, unless they have already studied for at least one year at some regularly established Law School, or under the direction of some approved Attorney; in which case, attendance at one full course only will be required. ALL candidates for graduation, however, are required to pass a general examination at the end of the course, on all the studies of the two years.

Besides the opportunities for hearing the arguments and forming the acquaintance of the most distinguished members of the American Bar, which the student of law in Washington enjoys, he has here the rare privilege of witnessing all the forms of judicial procedure from those of the local courts up to the Supreme Court of the United States, and of consulting the Law Library of Congress, which contains a collection of Law Books unsurpassed in variety and extent and is open for seven hours daily.

Moreover, by a standing order of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the graduates of the Law School of the University of Georgetown are ipso facto entitled to admission to the Bar of said Court.

Students are eligible to membership in the "Law Association of Georgetown University," established June 13, 1873, and incorporated July 9, 1874, which meets weekly at the College hall for the consideration of purely legal questions, and has a library and reading room for the use of its members.

The entire charge for attendance is Eighty dollars a year, due and payable on the first Thursday of October and February, but for the accommodation of Students monthly payments of ten dollars each, strictly in advance, will be received.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the School for not less than half a year, unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. No deduction can be made for absence. The fee for graduation is ten dollars.

For further information, application may be made, either personally or by letter to the Secretary at the lecture hall, 915 F Street N. W., from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 6 o'clock, P. M., until the day of opening; after that date, during the hour of lectures.

By order of the Faculty,

B. T. HANLEY,
Secretary and Treasurer.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT 51

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorizes a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those, who being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in Latin, Greek, French, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics, Mechanics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy, or who have graduated in any of the learned professions. The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts, is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Tuesday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February, and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December, and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified, will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general Examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

All accounts must be paid half-yearly in advance. If a student is withdrawn before the end of a session, no deduction will be made, except in cases of sickness or dismission.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College, unless a deposit, for that purpose, be left with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

Books and stationery, if not supplied by the parents or guardians themselves, will be furnished by the College, at moderate prices. No bill for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged, unless the purchase has been authorized by the Treasurer of the College.

Every student must be provided with at least two suits for daily wear, for which no particular color is prescribed, six changes of underclothing, with a like proportion of handkerchiefs and towels, and three pairs of shoes. He must also have a silver spoon and fork, which if not brought, will be furnished by the College and charged to his account. The College uniform can be obtained here on moderate terms.

Whatever sums parents or guardians may allow their sons or wards for pocket-money, must be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Every student from a distance must have a guardian in the vicinity who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at 8½ o'clock, A. M., and 2¾ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at 8¾ A. M., and continue until 12. They are resumed at 3, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

The day-scholars who do not return home at noon, will be required to prepare their lessons in the study-hall, at the regular hours.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, play-grounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly cathechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety, there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &C.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided. A Boat-Club was organized, May, 1876.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments, and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

THE SUMMER SESSION of 1876 began on TUESDAY EVENING, May 2d, and will continue during the months of May, June, and September.

Two Lectures will be delivered each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 6 to 8 P. M.

Clinics given at Providence Hospital and at the Children's Hospital.

Matriculation fee $5, valid for the year.

The Faculty desire to call especial attention to the Summer School. By attending, students will be enabled to keep up an unbroken course of study, and new matriculants be better prepared to understandingly attend the Lectures of the following Winter. This course is free to all matriculants.

PROSPECTUS.

THE REGULAR COURSE will begin Monday, October 2d, and end in the following March.

THE LECTURES will be delivered daily, commencing at 5.30 o'clock P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Government Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS contain spacious Lecture Rooms and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery.

FACILITIES FOR THE PROSECUTION OF MEDICAL STUDIES.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the course ample opportunity will be afforded the students for Clinical Instruction, free to the Matriculants of this Institution, at the Children's Hospital, Providence Hospital and Columbia Hospital for Women, by the medical officers of the respective hospitals; and, besides the Clinical Lectures there given, a Dispensary connected with the College Building affords great facilities for the study of disease. It will thus be seen that this valuable element of teaching is a prominent feature in the curriculum.

DISSECTIONS.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy and Surgical Operations upon the cadaver. The dissecting room is a large, convenient and well ventilated apartment, furnished with gas and water.

MUSEUMS.

The Army Medical Museum, adjacent to the College Building, contains the most valuable collection of Surgical and Medical Pathological Specimens in the world, and embodies the results of the medical and surgical experience gathered from the various hospitals and battle-fields of the late war. This collection is constantly being increased. The Smithsonian Museum, which has a national reputation, contains one of the finest collections of Zoölogical Specimens on the continent, thus affording ample opportunities for the study of Natural History and Comparative Anatomy. Its collection of crania is in itself an important feature. The Museum of the Agricultural Department and its conservatories, containing magnificent collections of tropical and semi-tropical plants, offer rare facilities to the student of Medical Botany.

LIBRARIES.

The Congressional Library, the largest in the country, open daily to the public, places within the reach of the student rare works which otherwise would be difficult to obtain. The Smithsonian Library, celebrated for its scientific volumes, can be reached with equal facility. The Library of the Army Medical Museum, solely devoted to medicine and surgery, contains over forty thousand volumes and as many pamphlets. This is adjacent to the College, and is open daily to the students.

CHARLES W. HOFFMAN, LL D.

President of the Moot Court, and Dean of the Faculty.

PROSPECTUS.

THE next term of this School of Law will commence on Wednesday, October 3d, 1877, at the Lecture Hall, 915 F street, northwest, Washington, and continue until the first Wednesday of June, 1878.

The Course of Studies covers a period of two years, but is so arranged, the Students being divided into a Junior and a Senior section, that those who enter at the beginning of any year, can complete the course the year following.

The general plan of instruction embraces lectures, examinations and recitations upon the several titles of law, supplemented by illustrations of actual Court proceeding and practice through the medium of the Moot Court, which, as heretofore, will be in session for the trial of causes at least once a week.

The regular Course of Instruction for the Junior Class will, during the ensuing term, embrace the Elements of the Common Law, including the Law of Real and Personal Property and the Law of Contracts, comprising in the latter a full discussion of the several titles of Mercantile Law. A course of Lectures upon Criminal Law, though not strictly pertaining to the Junior year, will also be given by Professor MORRIS. The regular Course for the Senior Class will embrace Common Law Pleading and Practice, the Law of Evidence and Equity Jurisprudence and Pleading.

The text-books which will be used during the term, and which can be obtained in Washington at reduced rates to Students, will be announced by the Professors at their opening lectures.

The Lectures and other exercises will be held in the evening, so as not to interfere with the daily occupation of Students, and to enable such as can do so to avail themselves during the day of the advantages of the different Law libraries and of attendance at the Courts.

Students are expected and required to be regular and punctual in their attendance, and to be prepared for close and exhaustive examinations upon the several studies. They should attend the Lectures and recitations of both classes, that they may become the more thoroughly grounded in the principles of Law.

Candidates for graduation must have attended two full Courses of Lectures in this School, unless they have already studied for at least one year at some regularly established Law School in good standing, and possessing a regular corps of competent professors, or under the direction of some approved Attorney; in which case, attendance on one full course only will be required. ALL candidates for graduation, however, are required to pass a general examination at the end of the course, on all the studies of the two years.

Besides the opportunities for hearing the arguments and forming the acquaintance of the most distinguished members of the American Bar, which the student of Law in Washington enjoys, he has here the rare privilege of witnessing all the forms of judicial procedure, from those of the local courts up to the Supreme Court of the United States, and of consulting the Law Library of Congress, which contains a collection of Law Books unsurpassed in variety and extent, and is open for seven hours daily.

Students coming from a distance will find the cost of board in Washington, much less than in many cities of smaller size not possessing its advantages.

Students are eligible to membership in the "Law Association of Georgetown University," established June 13th, 1873, and incorporated July 9th, 1874, which meets weekly at the College hall for the consideration of purely legal questions, and has a library for the use of its members.

The entire charge for attendance is Eighty Dollars a year, due and payable on the first Thursday of October and February, but for the accommodation of Students, monthly payments of ten dollars each, strictly in advance, will be received.

Each Student, upon enrolling his name as a member of the School, will be expected to purchase a ticket entitling him to admission to the Lectures and other exercises; on this will be endorsed all payments he may make for attendance during the term.

Persons enrolling their names as Students will be considered as having entered the School for not less than half a term unless an express agreement to the contrary be made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence. The fee for graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, is Ten Dollars, and is to be paid upon the Student being notified that he has passed examination and is entitled to a Diploma.

For further information, application may be made to the Secretary, either personally at the Hall, from $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 7 o'clock, p. m., or by letter.

B. T. HANLEY,
Secretary and Treasurer.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT 51

Georgetown College.

FOUNDED AS A COLLEGE, 1789.

CHARTERED AS A UNIVERSITY

By Act of Congress, March 1st, 1815.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorizes a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those, who being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in English, Latin, Greek, French, or some other modern language, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics, Mechanics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy.

The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts, is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the first Thursday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February, and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December, and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified, will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general Examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the students.

Books and stationery, if not supplied by the parents or guardians themselves, will be furnished by the College, at moderate prices. No bill for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged, unless the purchase has been authorized by the Treasurer of the College.

Every student must be provided with at least two suits for daily wear, for which no particular color is prescribed, six changes of underclothing, with a like proportion of hand-

Whatever sums parents or guardians may allow their sons or wards for pocket-money, must be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Every student from a distance must have a guardian in the vicinity who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal.

N. B.—No student will be allowed to remain at the College during the summer vacation.

Suitable board, in town or country, at the option and at the expense of parents or guardians, will be procured by the Treasurer for students who do not return home.

THE ENGLISH COURSE

Is adapted to the advancement of the Students. When well grounded in the elementary studies of Geography, History, Grammar and Composition, they are allowed to frequent the higher schools of English Literature with the classical students, and special attention is given to their advancement in Mathematics, Sciences and Modern Languages.

GENERAL REMARKS.

REGULATIONS FOR BOARDERS.

The Students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

REGULATIONS FOR DAY SCHOLARS.

They will be admitted into the College yard at $8\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, A. M., and $2\frac{3}{4}$ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{3}{4}$ A. M., and continue until 12. They are resumed at 3, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

The day-scholars who do not return home at noon, will be required to prepare their lessons in the study-hall, at the regular hours.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, playgrounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly cathechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of good marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

LECTURES, &C.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

MILITARY AND ATHLETIC EXERCISES.

There is a military organization comprising the two divisions of larger and smaller students, supplied with arms by the U. S. Government.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided. A Boat-Club was organized, May, 1876.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments, and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

THE SUMMER SESSION of 1878 will begin April 1st, and continue during the months of April, May and September, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 6 to 8 o'clock, P. M.

During the Summer, Surgical Clinics will be given by Professor Ashford at the Children's Hospital, and by Professor Eliot at Providence Hospital.

Professor Ross and Dr. Walter will continue Clinical Instruction at the Central Dispensary.

This Course is free to all Matriculants and Graduates of the Medical Department, University of Georgetown.

PROSPECTUS.

THE REGULAR COURSE will begin Monday, September 2d, and end in the following April.

THE LECTURES will be delivered daily, commencing at 5.30 o'clock, P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Government Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS contain spacious Lecture Rooms and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Faculty of the Medical Department, impressed with the necessity of a more thorough and systematic method of instruction than, with a few notable exceptions, has heretofore been pursued in the medical institutions of this country, and in compliance with the almost universal demand for a higher standard of proficiency in the several branches of science constituting the collegiate course of medical instruction, take pleasure in announcing to their friends and patrons that they have adapted their curriculum to the attainment of these objects.

Whilst requiring at least three years of continuous study, the system of collegiate instruction has been so graded and extended as to offer to the student the unusual advantages of three consecutive courses of didactic and clinical instruction, of seven months each; together with weekly class-recitations in the separate branches. These class recitations will be conducted by members of the Faculty, and will be sufficiently frequent to impress the student with a thorough knowledge of each subject, as he progresses, thereby securing a standard of proficiency not otherwise so easily and satisfactorily obtained.

The student will advance from the elementary to the higher branches of instruction only after attaining a certain standard of proficiency, and the system of instruction and examinations has been so arranged as to secure absolute impartiality and fairness; so that the success and standing of each student will be the measure of individual acquirement.

This graded course of study, whilst offering vastly superior opportunities for a more thorough acquisition of knowledge than was possible under the old system of crowding the collegiate studies into two courses of lectures of five months each, imposes no additional labor upon the student. On the contrary, it lightens his burdens by systematizing the methods of study, and affording the advantages of weekly recitations.

FACILITIES FOR THE PROSECUTION OF MEDICAL STUDIES.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the course, ample opportunity will be afforded the students for clinical instruction, free to the Matriculants of this Institution, at the Children's Hospital, Providence Hospital and Columbia Hospital for Women, by the medical officers of the respective hospitals; and, besides the Clinical Lectures there given, a Dispensary connected with the College Building affords great facilities for the study of disease. It will thus be seen that this valuable element of teaching is a prominent feature in the curriculum.

DISSECTIONS.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy and Surgical Operations upon the cadaver. The dissecting room is a large, convenient and well ventilated apartment, furnished with gas and water.

MUSEUMS.

The Army Medical Museum, adjacent to the College Building, contains the most valuable collection of Surgical and Medical Pathological Specimens in the world, and embodies the results of the medical and surgical experience gathered from the various hospitals and battle-fields of the late war. This collection is constantly being increased. The Smithsonian Museum, which has a national reputation, contains one of the finest collections of Zoölogical Specimens on the continent, thus affording ample opportunities for the study of Natural History and Comparative Anatomy. Its collection of crania is in itself an important feature. The Museum of the Agricultural Department and its conservatories, containing magnificent collections of tropical and semi-tropical plants, offer rare facilities to the student of Medical Botany.

LIBRARIES.

The Congressional Library, the largest in the country, open daily to the public, places within the reach of the student rare works which otherwise would be difficult to obtain. The Smithsonian Library, celebrated for its scientific volumes, can be reached with equal facility. The Library of the Army Medical Museum, solely devoted to medicine and surgery, contains over forty thousand volumes and as many pamphlets. This is adjacent to the College, and is open daily to the students.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

2. Obligatory attendance upon all three courses, before the student can apply for final examination.

PROSPECTUS.

The next term of this School of Law will commence on Wednesday, October 3d, 1878, at the Lecture Hall, 915 F street, northwest, Washington, and continue until the first Wednesday of June, 1879.

The Course of Studies covers a period of two years, but is so arranged, the Students being divided into a Junior and a Senior section, that those who enter at the beginning of any year, can complete the course the year following.

The general plan of instruction embraces lectures, examinations and recitations upon the several titles of law, supplemented by illustrations of actual Court proceeding and practice through the medium of the Moot Court, which, as heretofore, will be in session for the trial of causes at least once a week.

The regular Course of Instruction for the Junior Class will, during the ensuing term, embrace the Elements of the Common Law, including the Law of Real and Personal Property and the Law of Contracts, comprising in the latter a full discussion of the several titles of Mercantile Law. A course of Lectures upon Criminal Law, though not strictly pertaining to the Junior year, will also be given by Professor MORRIS. The regular Course for the Senior Class will embrace Common Law Pleading and Practice, the Law of Evidence and Equity Jurisprudence and Pleading.

The text-books which will be used during the term, and which can be obtained in Washington at reduced rates to Students, will be announced by the Professors at their opening lectures.

The Lectures and other exercises will be held in the evening, so as not to interfere with the daily occupation of Students, and to enable such as can do so to avail themselves during the day of the advantages of the different Law libraries and of attendance at the Courts.

Students are expected and required to be regular and punctual in their attendance, and to be prepared for close and exhaustive examinations upon the several studies. They should attend the Lectures and recitations of both classes, that they may become the more thoroughly grounded in the principles of Law.

Candidates for graduation must have attended two full Courses of Lectures in this School, unless they have already studied for at least one year at some regularly established Law School in good standing and possessing a regular corps of competent professors, or under the direction of some approved Attorney; in which case, attendance on one full course only will be required. ALL candidates for graduation, however, are required to pass a general examination at the end of the course, on all the studies of the two years.

Besides the opportunities for hearing the arguments and forming the acquaintance of the most distinguished members of the American Bar, which the student of Law in Washington enjoys, he has here the rare privilege of witnessing all the forms of judicial procedure, from those of the local courts up to the Supreme Court of the United States, and of consulting the Law Library of Congress, which contains a collection of Law Books unsurpassed in variety and extent, and is open for seven hours daily.

Students coming from a distance will find the cost of board in Washington much less than in many cities of smaller size not possessing its advantages.

Students are eligible to membership in the "Law Association of Georgetown University," established June 13th, 1873, and incorporated July 9th, 1874, which meets weekly at the College hall for the consideration of purely legal questions, and has a library for the use of its members.

The entire charge for attendance is Seventy-Five Dollars a year, due and payable on the first Thursday of October and February, but for the accommodation of Students, monthly payments of ten dollars each, strictly in advance, will be received.

Each Student, upon enrolling his name as a member of the School, will be expected to purchase a ticket entitling him to admission to the Lectures and other exercises; on this will be endorsed all payments he may make for attendance during the term.

Persons enrolling their names as Students will be considered as having entered the School for not less than half a term unless an express agreement to the contrary be made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence. The fee for graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, is Five Dollars, and is to be paid upon the Student being notified that he has passed examination and is entitled to a Diploma.

For further information, application may be made to the Secretary, either personally at the Hall, from 5½ to 7 o'clock, p. m., or by letter.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Admission.

Students may be entered at any time during the session.

Applicants for admission must know how to read and write, and must bear a good moral character. If they have been students at any other institution, they must present a certificate of general good conduct from the authorities of such institution or from other reliable persons.

Each student, on entering, is examined by the Prefect of Studies and assigned to the class for which his prior attainments have fitted him.

Course of Studies.

The entire course of studies, including the Preparatory Classes, is completed in seven years, unless the proficiency of the student authorizes a shortening of that term.

Special instruction is given to foreign students; to such as, by the direction of their parents or guardians, are exempted from the study of the ancient languages; and to those who, being well versed in the ordinary English branches, desire to advance more rapidly in the regular classical course.

Degrees.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon students who have made the regular course in English, Latin, Greek, French, or some other modern language, and Mathematics, and who have passed satisfactory examinations in Rational Philosophy, Physics, Mechanics and Chemistry.

The degree of Master of Arts, in course, is conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have passed satisfactory examinations in the post-graduate course of Ethics and Natural Philosophy.

The candidate for the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts, is required to compose an essay on some Literary, Scientific or Moral subject, which, if accepted by the Faculty, must be left in the archives of the College.

The degree of Bachelor of Science is conferred upon those who have completed the Scientific Course, and have passed satisfactory examinations in the studies pursued in that department.

Honorary degrees are conferred, at the discretion of the Faculty, upon those who unite proficiency in the Classics with eminence in Literature or Science.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term begins on the second Thursday in September, and ends on the last day of January. The second term begins on the third of February, and ends with the Annual Distribution of Prizes on the last Thursday in June.

The Christmas recess begins on the 23d of December, and ends on the 2d of January. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week until the Wednesday after Easter, exclusive.

Students who overstay the time specified, will be deprived of the privilege of returning home at the next recess.

No schools are taught on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

EXAMINATIONS.

A general Examination in all the classes is held towards the close of each term.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will be made, however, during the year, when warranted by the progress of the student.

The course is completed in three years. During the first year the students frequent the class of Poetry with the classical students, and follow the lectures in English Literature, Mathematics, and the Sciences proper to that class. The study of General Chemistry is pursued. Tri-weekly lectures in this branch are delivered, and the students are exercised by recitations and practical work.

Qualitative Analysis. Lectures are given on the properties of bases and acids, and the methods of separating and detecting them. Each student is provided with a desk and with the apparatus necessary for a practical repetition of the lectures. After being exercised in the principles of separating and detecting substances of unknown composition, embracing principally simple and compound mixture, silicates and alloys are given for determination.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Regulations for Boarders.

The students are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission.

Those who are allowed by the President to visit the city, must return before six o'clock, P. M.

Students whose parents or legal guardians reside in the District, will be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of each month and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College Authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of opening all letters to students, not known to be from parents or guardians.

The introduction of immoral books or papers will render the offender liable to expulsion.

The students are required to abide by the College regulations with regard to the use of tobacco.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

Regulations for Day Scholars.

They will be admitted into the College yard at $8\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, A. M., and $2\frac{3}{4}$ o'clock, P. M.

The classes begin at $8\frac{3}{4}$ A. M., and continue until 12. They are resumed at 3, and continue till 5 P. M.

Punctual attendance at these hours is required, and no one, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Studies.

The day scholars who do not return home at noon, will be required to prepare their lessons in the study-hall, at the regular hours.

They are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders without the consent of the President of the College.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

The younger students are under the supervision of officers especially assigned to them, and have dormitories, play-grounds, study-halls, &c., apart.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS.

Catholics are instructed in their religion by means of the Catechism, which forms one of the regular recitations, and by weekly catechetical lectures, which are attended by all. Further instruction is also given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the encouragement of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and possess each a library of appropriate works.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. As marks are not made up to absentees, parents who permit their sons to remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess, cannot expect to see them hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of each month, when the "marks" and the standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of each student is sent to his parents or guardians.

Lectures, &c.

The students of the more advanced classes, accompanied by one of their Professors, are sometimes permitted to attend the lectures of the Smithsonian Institute, the debates in Congress, or the pleadings before the Supreme Court, when interesting and instructive subjects are under discussion.

Literary Societies.

These associations are intended to promote a taste for general or special literary studies, and to afford practice in debate and declamation. Their annual celebrations are public, and are held on days fixed by the by-laws. Each Society has a Library of select works.

The Students' Reading-Room is supplied with daily, weekly and monthly journals.

Athletic Exercises.

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged. Ample facilities for physical exercise and for bathing are provided. A Boat-Club was organized, May, 1876.

LIBRARY, MUSEUM, &c.

The College LIBRARY contains thirty thousand volumes, amongst which are many rare and curious works. There are one hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the year 1400, and others of later dates.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL CABINET and the Chemical Laboratory contain the instruments necessary for the prosecution of studies in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

The collections in the MUSEUM embrace an extensive cabinet of minerals, geological specimens and shells, besides a valuable set of coins, medals and miscellaneous objects.

At the distance of about 400 yards from the College is an ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY, sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a first-class meridian circle, by Troughton & Simms, of London. The divided arc of the circle has a diameter of 45 inches, reading by microscopes to fractions of a second of an arc. The telescope is a four-inch glass. A fine sidereal clock, by Molyneux, of London, accompanies this instrument. In the western room is mounted a fine transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long, and has a four and one-half inch object glass. There is in the same room a sidereal clock. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, and has a rotary dome. The dome-room contains a well-mounted equatorial telescope, made by Troughton & Simms. This instrument has a 4 8-10 inch object glass, giving powers from twenty-five to four hundred. There are, moreover, five portable astronomical instruments, and a library of five hundred works on Astronomy, Mathematics and the Physical Sciences.

PROSPECTUS.

THE COURSE will begin Monday, September 5th, 1881, and end May 1st, 1882.

THE LECTURES will be delivered daily, commencing at 5.30 o'clock, P. M. This arrangement has been found most convenient for the students, especially for those who are employed in the various Governmental Departments.

THE COLLEGE BUILDING contains spacious Lecture Rooms, and all other conveniences requisite for the prosecution of the study of Medicine and Surgery, and is situated in the centre of Washington city, within one square of three lines of street cars, making it easily accessible from all parts of the Capital and from the contiguous cities of Georgetown and Alexandria.

FACILITIES.

No city in the Union offers greater advantages for the prosecution of medical studies than Washington. Its delightful climate, its beautiful avenues and parks, the high social standing of its inhabitants, its cosmopolitan characteristics, its museums of Art, of Patents, of Botany, of Pathology and Anatomy, and the extensive scientific collections in the National Museum; its libraries, the largest in the country, both general and special; its Hospitals, its Dispensaries, and its Asylums, all conjoin to add interest, profit, and pleasure to the earnest seeker after medical knowledge.

REORGANIZATION OF CURRICULUM.

The Faculty of the Medical Department, impressed with the necessity for a more thorough and systematic method of instruction than, with a few notable exceptions, has heretofore been pursued in the medical institutions of this country, and in compliance with the almost universal demand for a higher standard of proficiency of graduates in the several branches of medical science, takes pleasure in announcing to its friends and patrons that the reorganization of the curriculum, which was inaugurated three years ago, has already, and to the fullest extent, justified its adoption. The great benefits to the students were manifested by the increased amount and accuracy of knowledge attained, and by the high character and satisfaction of the final examinations; these latter being credited with the record of the weekly recitations.

This School was one of the first to adopt and enforce the requirements of three collegiate terms of study and written examinations. Three years of experience has fully established the wisdom of this change of the curriculum, and it has been deemed advisable to extend the course still further, to the length of eight months, and, instead of the summer course, to introduce into the regular course a series of lectures upon the important subjects of Ophthalmology, Laryngology, Diseases of children, Hygiene, &c.

Whilst requiring of the student at least three years of continuous study, the lectures are so arranged and extended as to offer to the student the unusual advantages of three consecutive courses, of eight months each, of didactic and clinical instruction, together with weekly class recitations in the separate branches of each course. These class recitations are conducted by members of the Faculty, and are sufficiently frequent to impress the student with a thorough knowledge of each subject as he progresses, thereby securing a standard of proficiency not otherwise to be attained so easily and satisfactorily.

The student will advance from the elementary to the higher branches of instruction only after satisfactory examinations, which are so arranged as to secure absolute impartiality and fairness; so that the success and standing of each student will be the measure of individual acquirement.

This graded course of study, while offering vastly superior opportunities for a more thorough acquisition of knowledge than could be possible under the old system of crowding the collegiate studies into two courses of lectures of five months each, imposes no additional hardship upon the pupil; on the contrary, it lightens his burdens by systematizing the method of study, and affording the advantages of weekly recitations.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

1. The curriculum to comprise three (3) full courses of lectures.

2. Obligatory attendance upon all these courses before the student can apply for final examination.

3. Each course comprises eight months, viz: September to April, inclusive.

4. Fourteen lectures, i. e. two in each branch, and seven recitations, i. e. one in each branch, per week.

5. Attendance upon recitations obligatory; a record of recitations to be kept, and each student to be credited in the summing up of the examinations at the end of each course with his relative standing in each branch—ten to be the highest average attainable.

6. Examination at the end of each session, as provided for in Rule 13. Attendance upon these examinations obligatory.

7. The examinations to be in writing, and three hours to be given in each branch.

8. The questions alike for all candidates; to be printed on numbered slips; the answers, similarly numbered, to be accompanied by the name of the candidate and the number of his examination paper enclosed in a sealed envelope.

9. The student must obtain fifty per cent. to pass in each branch.

10. One hundred to be the highest mark, and zero the lowest.

11. Each Professor to determine the standing of a student in his branch; the Faculty acting upon the name proposed, and having the power of revision.

12. The students, according to time of study and proficiency, to be divided into three classes, numbered 1st, 2d, and 3d.

13. Subjects for examination at the conclusion of the First Course, and for students of the First Class: Anatomy, Physiology, Materia Medica, and Chemistry. At the conclusion of Second Course, and for Students of Second Class: Anatomy, Physiology, Materia Medica, Chemistry, Pathology and Diagnosis—medical, surgical, and obstetrical—Ophthalmology, Laryngology, Otology, Diseases of Children, Hygiene and Medical Jurisprudence. At conclusion of Third Course, and for candidates for the degree of M. D.: Anatomy, Physiology, Practice of Medicine, Surgery, Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Infants, Ophthalmology, Laryngology, Otology, Diseases of Children, Hygiene and Medical Jurisprudence.

14. A student to be admitted for examination of the First Class, must have studied medicine for one year.

15. A student of the First Class, whilst attending all recitations, is examined only in the four primary branches.

16. A student failing to receive sixty-five per cent. of the aggregate at either first, second, or final examination, to be placed back to his standing at the beginning of the respective course. The same result to follow failure to submit to examination.

17. In the competitive examination for the Faculty prize, the successful candidate must obtain at least an aggregate of seventy-five per cent.; no one of the candidates obtaining this, the prize will not be awarded.

Any student who is qualified by having attended other recognized Schools, may enter any class after passing the examination required for that class.

CLINICAL ADVANTAGES.

COLLEGE DISPENSARY.

This service is held in the College Building, daily, from 4 to 6, P. M. It is in charge of the Faculty, assisted by our own graduates, and has for its chief aim Clinical Instruction. The material here collected is utilized in the lectures of the course, and the practice in the Maternity service will be assigned to advanced students, under the supervision of the Professor of Obstetrics.

PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL.

This large General Hospital, under the charge of the Sisters of Charity, is situated in a populous and easily accessible part of the city, where every variety and condition of disease and injury may be seen and studied. It is supported in part by the General Government, and receives the transient sick of the District of Columbia, as well as the patients of the marine service. Most subjects of accidents are carried into its wards, which are at all times filled with interesting and instructive medical and surgical cases.

Surgical Clinics will be given in this hospital by Professor Eliot.

THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

This Institution is situated on W street, between 12th and 13th streets, N. W., and offers to medical students the opportunities of observing the effects of diseases, injuries, and deformities in infancy and childhood, and the proper methods of treatment. The great importance of this field of study cannot be over estimated, and every facility will be granted the student to thoroughly understand and comprehend all the cases which constantly crowd its wards.

Clinics will be held in this hospital by Professors Busey and Ashford.

THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL DISPENSARY.

This Dispensary is open every day, (except Sundays,) from 2.30 to 4.30 o'clock, P. M. Here the student is brought more intimately into contact with patients than in any other way, because he hears the history, sees the patient examined, has the disease diagnosed and explained, and from day to day follows and learns the effect of treatment. There is an Eye and Ear, a Medical, and a Surgical Department of this Dispensary.

Professors Busey and Ashford each have a service here three days of every week. All the services are free for the admission of medical students.

Central Dispensary.

This Dispensary has a daily attendance of over fifty patients. It is located within a short distance of the College, and daily clinics are given by its attending staff.

These clinics will embrace a wide range of practical medicine, and will perfect the student in diagnosis, in the actual application of remedies to disease, in the management of surgical affections, and in the use of surgical appliances. Opportunities will be given for close inspection and personal manipulation of a large, well selected case of drugs, as well as practical experience in compounding and dispensing prescriptions.

This charity offers unusual opportunities for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician's life, and presents facilities, not generally accessible to students, to become familiar with the symptomatology and treatment of disease.

Dissections.

Abundant accommodations and material will be provided for the study of Practical Anatomy, and for the practice of Surgical operations upon the cadaver. The Dissecting Room is one of the largest, most convenient, and well ventilated in the country, and amply supplied with subjects.

Museums.

Army Medical Museum.

This magnificent repository of Histology, Pathology, Human and Comparative Anatomy and Medical Literature, is situated on 10th street, adjacent to the College Building. It is the most inviting and richest field for the real student of medicine that can be found in the world.

It contains the largest collection of specimens of gun shot injuries in existence, as well as a vast number of pathological and histological specimens, beautifully mounted and carefully catalogued. This collection is being constantly augmented by contributions from the army surgeons, as well as from many of the physicians and surgeons of the United States. The division of Comparative Anatomy, is rapidly increasing in interest and importance. All medical and surgical appliances, apparatuses and conveniences, may be seen here in abundance.

Its doors are open from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M., Sundays excepted.

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM.

Here will be found a fine collection relating to Comparative Anatomy, Ethnology, Palæontology, Ornithology, Botany, and other allied sciences.

THE FACULTY PRIZE.

The Prize, a gold medal, to the value of $75, will be given by the Faculty to the graduate who shall have passed the best written examination, in conformity with Rule 17. This Prize will be publicly conferred by the President of the University, at the annual commencement.

ANATOMY PRIZE.

This Prize is given by the Professor of Anatomy for the best anatomical preparation. It is valued at $25.

PROSPECTUS,

For the Year 1881-1882.

The opening Lecture of the next session will be delivered on Wednesday, October 5th, 1881, at six o'clock in the evening, at Gonzaga Hall, 915 F street, northwest, in the city of Washington. The term will conclude on the first Wednesday in June, 1881.

Course of Studies.

The regular course covers a period of two years. It is so arranged, the Students being divided into a Junior and a Senior section, that those who enter at the beginning of any year may complete the course the year following.

Students have the option of attending both series of lectures, and it is desired that they do so in order to make themselves thoroughly familiar with the topics discussed.

They are expected to be regular and punctual in attendance, and prepared for frequent and thorough examinations. These will be considered in fixing the final standing of the student.

Text-Books.

The text-books required, subject to change of which due notice will be given at the opening of the course, are as follows:

First Year.—Blackstone's Commentaries, (Sharwood's edition); Kent's Commentaries; Anson on Contracts.

Second Year.—Stephens on Pleading; F. J. Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence; Bisphain's Equity.

Post-Graduate.—Paschal's Annotated Constitution, and such other works as may be prescribed or recommended by instructors.

ADMISSION.

Those desiring to become members of the school must enter their names upon the register of students in the hands of the Secretary and pay at least one month's tuition in advance. A ticket will be delivered to the matriculant, entitling him to admission to all the lectures and other exercises, on which this and all subsequent payments will be endorsed. No examination is required previous to admission, it being understood that the applicant has a fair English education and some mental training. It is recommended that the student, previous to entering, familiarize himself if possible to some degree with Blackstone's Commentaries and Story on the Constitution (school edition) and procure a good law dictionary.

Candidates for advanced standing, i. e. those desiring to complete the course in one year, must, at the same time, present certificates, showing at least one year's previous study at some approved law school, or in the office of some respectable practitioner.

Those entering the post-graduate class should exhibit their diplomas or certificates of equivalent study.

GRADUATION.

All candidates for a degree from this school must have been in regular attendance at least for one year, and pass a satisfactory examination, oral and written, on the entire two years' course of studies.

POST-GRADUATE COURSE.

As three years' study is required for admission to the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, a POST-GRADUATE course of one year has been added to the curriculum, embracing, besides a review of previous studies, an advanced course in Constitutional Law and other subjects conducted by eminent gentlemen, and especially the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, which will be a school of actual practice.

THE MOOT COURT

will be conducted as heretofore by the Dean, with the assistance of the Secretary and other professional gentlemen who will be invited to sit in hearing appeals. A Clerk and Marshal will be selected from among the students.

SPECIAL STUDENTS.

At general request, the Faculty have opened the advantages of the lectures of the school to those who wish to attend them without being subject to the examinations or standing for a degree, and at half the rates for regular attendance. At any time during the year students in this department may be admitted to the regular course by payment of the ordinary fees.

REMARKS.

The student of law in Washington enjoys opportunities of hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar, and the unequalled privilege of witnessing all forms of procedure from those of local tribunals up to the Supreme Court of the United States; also of consulting the library of Congress, which contains a collection of law books unsurpassed in variety and extent, and is open for seven hours daily. The student of constitutional law can here inspect the actual operations of Government.

The lectures and recitations are held at an early hour in the evening, so as not to interfere with the daily occupations of students. Those not thus engaged may fill the time most profitably in attendance on the courts and frequenting the libraries.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance is Fifty Dollars a year. The term is regarded as divided into two equal parts, beginning on the first Wednesday of October and February respectively, and one-half of the annual charge becomes due and payable on the Thursday succeeding. For the accommodation of the students, the Secretary has been authorized to receive monthly payments of Seven Dollars each, payable strictly in advance.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the School for not less than half a term, unless an express agreement to the contrary be made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence. The fee for graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, is Five Dollars, and is to be paid upon the student being notified that he has passed examination and is entitled to a Diploma.

For the Post-Graduate Course the charge is Twenty-five Dollars, payable in two instalments, in advance.

For attendance on Lectures, as above stated, the charge is Twenty-five Dollars a year.

By order of the Faculty,

WM. HENRY DENNIS,
Secretary and Treasurer.
